

Why We Do What We Do

Because the current food system deserves repair. Because in America, 40% of food is thrown away while some people are going hungry. Because food producers are valuable and should be paid what they're worth.

Our Mission

With everything we do, we aim to challenge the way society has taught us to eat. We believe in maintaining the integrity of local and organic agriculture. The way we maintain and challenge is to promote authenticity and transparency by utilizing local, seasonal and rotational ingredients to prepare creative cuisine. Are you hungry for change?

Our Goals

Provide food at 22 of the coolest food truck festivals each season

Cater 80 large events annually

Host a minimum of 45 Farm House Events annually

Our Vision

We're joining forces with other farmers & foodies to pave a new path through food. One that is delicious. One that promotes an optimal, healthful system for the consumer, the producer, and the soil alike.

Farmer Meets Foodie Job Description

We're seeking an A player to join the Foodie Team!

Specifically, we're excited to find someone with the following qualities:

1. Trustworthy
2. Desire to learn and grow
3. Health conscious/aware
4. Self starting/motivated
5. Friendly, fun and adventurous
6. Quick learner
7. Cares for/is connected to the local food movement
8. Creative problem solver
9. Flexible schedule (can work evenings, weekends and occasionally travel out of town for consecutive days)
10. Foodservice experience

Why join us?

Joining the Farmer Meets Foodie team grants you access to multi-faceted work opportunities so you can focus on what you are passionate about! Whether it's catering, running a food truck, prepping frozen meals, speaking with clients or serving at Farm House Dinners, there's so many areas to learn and grow. We believe in investing in ourselves, so we encourage growth as a team through various resources including books, audios and personality typing. We desire each team member to be the best, healthiest version of themselves, so we also make an effort through scheduling to provide an adequate work-life balance.

Farmer Meets Foodie is making a positive impact with each meal we serve, as we support more than 30 Montana family food producers. In addition to making a big impact, each of our team members have the potential for creative license, as we're constantly seeking out new and exciting ingredients. Members of the Foodie Team are frequently inventing new menu items to try, because with each shift we provide a free meal to each staff member. We have some other cool perks too, like good wages + tips and monthly prizes if we hit our collective sales goal!

Working in the food industry can be exhausting, but on the Foodie Team, we make it fun! Whether it's our communal stash of frozen lemonade during a hot food truck shift, a swanky Airbnb we enjoy during an out-of-town catering gig/festival or a team party with games and homemade pizza- we're all about having a good time.

General Responsibilities

- Operate the Streatery food truck during select shifts
- Assist with food prep/packaging
- Serve/assist at Farm House Events
- Assist with catering
- Work food truck events/festivals
- Handle long days on your feet
- Maintain a clean and orderly work environment
- Potential to create new menu items to be featured at Streatery
- Be able to lift 50 lbs
- Operate a modern POS system
- Knife skills
- Polish dishes/set tables for events
- Find new ways to feature local ingredients

Time Commitment

Working in the food industry, our work schedule includes working weekends, evenings, early mornings, and potentially any time in between. We cater and vend at festivals around the state of Montana, so some gigs will require overnight travel (food and lodging provided). We are currently seeking multiple team members to work with us part time up to 25 hours/week. There is potential to move to full time if you're the right fit.